DERAILMENT AT IDAVILLE BLOCKS READING TRACKS

Traffic on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg branch of the Reading railroad was blocked for nearly 24 hours after nine freight cars near the middle of a 54-car train were derailed on a curve just west of Idaville Station at 2:54 p. m. Saturday.

Thirty-four cars ahead of the derailed section were brought on to Gettysburg by the two locomotives drawing the long train, most of which was to be cut over onto Western Maryland tracks here enroute to Baltimore.

Eleven cars and the caboose, which remained on the tracks back of the overturned cars, were pulled back to Starner's and put on a siding to allow a work train from Harrisburg to begin track clearance work.

No one was injured in the derailment, all members of the crew being either in the locomotive cab or in the caboose with Conductor Mahlon P. Hartzell. No estimate of the damage was available today with the wrecking crews still busy with two big cranes at the task of returning several of the overturned cars to the tracks.

Train Going Slowly

The track was cleared early Sunday afternoon by returning some of the cars to the rails and by moving others from the roadbed. Several of the cars had toppled down an embankment on the inside of the curve while others came to a stop crosswise on the single track.

Most of the cars were loaded with heavy freight, including grain, cement, fire brick and pipe. Some grain spilled and some cement was lost from a "hopper" car but unless some of the cars buckle and break open while being returned to the track, railroaders said there likely would be little damage to cargoes.

The cause of the derailment was not given officially. Members of the crew estimated that the train was traveling only 12 or 15 miles an hour. The Saturday evening passenger train from Harrisburg was able to come only as far as Starner's. No through tickets to Gettysburg were sold at Harrisburg that evening and passengers picked up along the line with destinations beyond Starner's were delivered by automobile.

FATHER STOCK IS STRICKEN SUNDAY

Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, pastor of St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church, is confined to the rectory on West High street, following a heart attack late Sunday afternoon.

Father Stock conducted his usual Sunday morning and early afternoon services and apparently was in his usual health when he witnessed the departure of buses of parishioners for the Conewago Deaneary Council convention of the NCCW at the Old Jesuit Mission in Buchanan Valley, late Sunday afternoon. He then returned to the rectory where he was stricken a short time later.

His condition today was reported favorable by his attending physician.

Miss Edna Zinn Is Engaged To Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Zinn, Baltimore street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edna Rebecca Zinn, to James E. Schwenk, Philadelphia. The wedding is to take place in July.

Miss Zinn is a graduate of Gettysburg high school in the class of 1939 and was employed by the United Telephone company here before joining the Philadelphia Signal Corps Inspection agency in 1942. For the last two and a half years, she has been inspecting signal corps equipment for the United States Army at Providence, R. I., and New Bedford, Mass.

Now she is with the manufacturing division of the Washington Institute of Technology at College Park, Md.

Mr. Schwenk attended Brown university at Providence and now is secretary and general manager of the Metalcraft Engineering Service, Inc., of Philadelphia.

SEEK POST HOME

There will be a special meeting of Post No. 15 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars tonight at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of voting on the purchase of property for a home for the Gettysburg Post. Suitable property has been found by the committee appointed for that purpose, and purchase of an option will be put before the membership for a vote.

Receive Pins For Stamp Sales

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams-Fulton courts, presenting a sterling silver pin, replica of a water weasel, to Donald Menges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Menges, Gettysburg, and James Bucher, son of Mrs. Caroline Bucher, Aspers, for selling the largest number of ten-cent defense stamps during the water weasel campaign. Carrier boys for The Gettysburg Times, had pledged themselves to sell sufficient stamps to purchase a weasel. The carriers sold 167,950 ten-cent defense stamps during the campaign, greatly exceeding their pledges. The presentation of the pins was made by Judge Sheely at a public exercise in the court house May 17.

HS SENIORS HEAR DR. R. GRESH AT BACCALAUREATE

"There can be no doubt about it, the frightful social, political and economic perplexities which today confront us have been brought on by the mis-lived lives of individuals and are the sum total of individual mismanagement," the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, told the graduating class of Gettysburg high school at the baccalaureate service Sunday evening at St. James church.

Urging youth to fix its eyes on the heavens and set forth with high purpose, Doctor Gresh spoke of "the high calling which is in Christ Jesus," as the hope and salvation of the world. His address, entitled "A High Calling," stressed the force and vigor of youth, as he urged the younger generation not to fall prey to boredom, disillusionment and apathy as they grow older but to press on with the spirit of Christ in their hearts.

H. S. Choir Sings

The large church was filled long before the service commenced as the measured counterpart of Prelude, Dubois' "Toccata" filled the room. When the music changed to the quickened tempo of Costa's "Triumphal March," clad either in the cassock and surplice of the choir, or the high school's grey caps and gowns, the graduating class marched solemnly in and took its place followed by the faculty.

Doctor Gresh pronounced the invocation, followed by a hymn, read the scripture lesson and led the gathering in prayer. Then, Richard B. Shade, instructor of music in the town schools and organist and choir director at the church, led the high school choir in Palestrina's devotional anthem "Adoramus Te," after which Doctor Gresh delivered his sermon.

Two offertory anthems, "Holy Redeemer" by Arcadelt and "Glory to God in the Highest" by Whitford were sung as the offering was collected for the support of the AME Zion church followed by a hymn and the recessional "Festival March" by Blackmore, during which the graduating class and faculty marched out, and the postlude "Te Deum Laudamus" by Claussman.

R. E. MUSSELMAN IS LIBERATED

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Musselman, Fairfield R. 1, have received word from the War Department their son, Pfc. Ralph E. Musselman, 26, has returned to military control after being a prisoner of the Germans.

Pfc. Musselman took part in the invasion of Europe on June 6, 1944, and served with an infantry outfit of General Hodges' First Army. He was taken prisoner on November 8.

The liberated soldier was inducted April 20, 1941, and trained at Indiantown Gap, Camp Croft, S. C.; Camp Livingston, La.; Camp Pickett, Va., and Camp Johnston, Fla. He has been overseas about 19 months.

A brother, Cpl. Clyde Musselman, 22, was wounded while fighting in Italy.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The period June through September is the season when infantile paralysis generally is on the upswing in this part of the country. During recent years this area has been stricken with several or more cases.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has compiled a number of suggestions which will be helpful to residents of this area. We have been asked to give wide publicity to the suggestions to follow in the care and prevention of the affliction. Parents are urged to read these suggestions carefully, and to save this copy for future reference. Here are the suggestions:

1. During an outbreak of infantile paralysis be alert to any early signs of illness or changes in normal state of health, especially in children. Do not assume that a stomach upset with vomiting, constipation, diarrhea, severe headache or signs of a cold and fever are of no importance. These may be among the first symptoms of infantile paralysis. All children and adults sick with unexplained fever should be put to bed and isolated pending medical diagnosis.

2. Don't delay calling a physician. Expert medical care given early may prevent many of the crippling deformities. Proper care from the onset may mean the difference between a life of crippling and good recovery.

3. Today there is no known (Please Turn to Page 2)

Local Soldier In Augusta Hospital

Augusta, Ga. — Pfc. Wilbur F. Weimer, Gettysburg, son of Alfred Weimer, has arrived at the Oliver General hospital here from overseas for further medical treatment.

Oliver General hospital is one of the Army's great medical institutions, and has a bed capacity of 2,240. It represents the final step in the chain of evacuation from the front lines.

With the war against Japan upmost in the minds of its personnel, Oliver General is making every effort to be ready for the casualties which must inevitably result from the prosecution of the war in the Pacific. Thousands of wounded and sick men from the European Theater also continue to be evacuated and receive treatment here.

Spring Ceremonial Of Shrine June 6

The spring ceremonial of Zembo Shrine will be held at the Mosque, in Harrisburg, June 6, Potentate Charles G. Stone, announced.

The program includes a golf tournament at the Colonial Country club, balloting on candidates, registration, dinner and entertainment, patrol drills, vaudeville, band concert, opening of the Temple and the first and second section under the direction of Paul Rexroth. Refreshments will be at 11:30 p. m.

Divans from Wilkes-Barre, Philadelphia, Reading, Pittsburgh, Erie, Trenton, N. J., and Baltimore have been invited.

MISS CARBAUGH PRESIDENT OF NCCW DEANERY

Miss Marie Carbaugh, New Oxford, was elected president of the Conewago Deaneary Council of the National Council of Catholic Women, at the annual convention at St. Ignatius church, Buchanan Valley, Sunday.

Other officers elected include: Miss Margaret Belz, McSherrystown, vice-president; Miss Mary Weaver, Littlestown, secretary; Miss Sarah Marie Klunk, McSherrystown, treasurer.

Miss Carbaugh succeeds Miss Mary I. Eberhart, Gettysburg, Miss Eberhart was presented with a gift "in token of appreciation" of the services she rendered the council during the past year. The presentation was made by Miss Mary Weaver.

Miss Eberhart presided at the opening of the convention, a meeting of the board of directors. The secretary's report by Miss Catherine E. Miller, Orrtanna, followed the opening prayer to the Holy Ghost.

Plan Summer Pilgrimage

The directors discussed a pilgrimage to the tomb of Mother Seton at St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, this summer. The session closed with prayer by Rev. Fr. Leo J. Krichen, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Bonnevillie, who is ill. This and all other meetings of the convention were held in the parish hall, the stage of which was attractively decorated with cut flowers and a Sacred Heart shrine. A red, white and blue color scheme prevailed.

Registration of delegates took place from noon until one o'clock when the first business session was held with Miss Eberhart presiding. Minutes of the previous meeting followed the prayer to "Our Lady of Good Counsel."

The following committees were appointed: Mrs. J. Walter Coleman, Gettysburg, credentials; Mrs. Robert Brady, nomination; Mrs. Edward Slagle, judge of elections and tellers; Miss Lucretia Orndorff and Miss Mary Miller, Rev. Fr. John P. O'Donnell, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Conewago chapel, read the closing prayer.

General Session

The first general session was held at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Daniel J. Crowley, pastor of the host church, gave the opening prayer. The pledge of allegiance to the flag followed. Miss Eberhart, who presided, spoke briefly, declaring that the convention should be dedicated "to the Sacred Heart and we should pledge anew our determination to carry out, in Christ's name, the ideals of the NCCW organization in the home, in business and the social world in keeping with the theme of the convention. The greatest cause, the cause of Christ."

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Father Crowley and Miss Catherine Miller, president of the host parish council. The response was given by Miss Marie Carbaugh, of the New Oxford council.

Miss Miller presented a report of the activities of all the parishes in the deaneary. She said that in addition to routine activities all members were participating in war time activities and that special prayers, masses, and novenas were being said (Please Turn to Page 2)

County Reaches Half-Way Mark In "E" Bonds

Adams county has passed the half-way mark in its drive to sell $700,000 worth of "E" bonds to individuals in the "Mighty Seventh" war loan campaign, the county War Finance Committee announced this morning.

Total sales up to 11 o'clock this morning was announced at $355,113, or slightly more than $5,000 over the half-way mark.

"While this is somewhat encouraging it is far under our expectations at this stage of the drive," a committee observer said today.

"We had hoped to be up to or near the half-million dollar mark on this date," the observer said. "but the returns have failed to equal our expectations. It is possible that there may be a few thousands in "E" bonds which have not been credited to Adams county, but there isn't a sufficient amount to make a great deal of difference. If we hope to reach our goal our daily sales will have to be increased considerably from now through the close of the drive."

CCE OF COUNTY HOLDS ANNUAL MEET ON SUNDAY

"Reaching the Unreached," the keynote of the meeting, was the subject of the principal address to the 46th annual convention of the Adams County Council of Christian Education delivered Sunday night by the Rev. Norman Webster, of Philadelphia, state Young People's superintendent.

The meeting represented a total of 16,131 church members in Adams county and 11,699 Sunday school students. A net gain in all divisions of Christian education was reported.

In addition to the main address there were two talks by Mr. Zacharias of the Adult Division of the Bureau of Christian Education in Harrisburg and Claude Meckley, Hanover postmaster.

Elect Officers

Charles Gentzler, of East Berlin, was reelected president. Other officers reelected include: Cyrus Bucher, Biglerville; Henry Burkhar, Orrtanna; Elmer Schildt, Taneytown; Corman Day, Gardners, and Luther Lady, Biglerville; vice presidents: Mrs. Russel Stoops, Gettysburg, corresponding secretary; T. J. Winebrenner, Gettysburg, treasurer; Mrs. Lloyd Garretson, superintendent (Please Turn to Page 2)

Parochial School Exercises Friday

Graduation exercises for the eighth grade pupils at St. Francis Xavier's parochial school will be held Friday evening in the church at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be a brief sermon, hymn singing, announcement of awards, presentation of diplomas and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Yank Sub Torpedoes Jap Convoy In Shallow Water

Washington, June 4 (AP)—A submarine's daring surface attack on a Japanese convoy at anchor in water too shallow to permit a dive won high honors for the vessel's skipper and crew.

The submarine, the U. S. S. Barb, sent so many enemy ships to the bottom they couldn't be counted in the clear-cut get-away.

The Navy told the story today. It is one Secretary Forrestal said he regretted security forbade his revealing when he awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor last March 23 to Comdr. Eugene B. Fluckey, the Barb's commander officer. In addition, the Barb has been awarded the Presidential unit citation.

Fluckey took his ship on what appeared to be a virtually a suicide mission because the anchored convoy was hidden behind protecting screen of escorts concentrated on every logical approach. In the confusion, the Barb's freighters, tankers and munitions ships.

The water was so shallow Fluckey knew the attacking submarine would have to remain surfaced during its approach and for at least an hour after the attack. The shallow water also indicated a strong probability of mines.

In the Barb's favor, it was night,

LOCAL FLIER IS HOME FROM GERMAN PRISON

Staff Sergeant Eugene Purnell, ball-turret gunner of a Flying Fortress, who was shot down over northern France March 4, 1944, and liberated May 31, returned to Gettysburg on a 60-day furlough June 1. He arrived in the United States May 29 after spending 14 months in Stalag 17-B, a German prison camp near Vienna. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Purnell of Baltimore street.

At the time he was freed, Sgt. Purnell and 9 other prisoners were being evacuated from the prison camp and sent north to escape the advancing Americans. They were overtaken by advance elements of General Alexander Patch's Seventh Army in a woods where prisoners and their guards had stopped to rest. The guards, members of the Volkssturm, did not resist. They were ill trained, the sergeant said, and their guns were rusty so that they probably couldn't have been fired.

Brother in Europe

Sgt. Purnell spent two months in England with the 8th Airforce and was shot down on his second mission. He trained at Sioux City, Iowa, and was inducted Nov. 10, 1942. He has a brother, Pfc. Frederick Purnell, who is with the infantry in Europe.

The plane on which Sgt. Purnell was serving at the time he was forced to jump near St. Quentin, France, was struck repeatedly by anti-aircraft which destroyed its fuel supply. All the crew are alive now, Sgt. Purnell said, except one man, whose parachute failed to open. After his capture, however, Sgt. Purnell never saw his comrades.

On leave from the Reception Station at Ft. Dix, N. J., Sgt. Purnell has orders to report to the Army Air Forces Redistribution Center, Miami Beach, Fla., Aug. 2.

Sgt. Purnell holds the Air Medal, Presidential Unit Citation with two palms, the Good Conduct Medal and the European Theater Ribbon with two battle stars.

DRAFT BOARD INDUCTS 21

Twenty-one men were inducted into the service at Harrisburg today as the June quota of Selective Service Board No. 2 for Gettysburg and western Adams county. They are:

Clarence Albert Reynolds, Mechanicsburg; Glenn Martin Rider, Ardentville; Charles William Slusser, Littlestown; Robert B. Kroushour, Baltimore; John Charles Murray, Gettysburg; Paul Revere Boyer, Gettysburg; Mervin John Mummert, Hanover; Eugene McCrea Currens, Ardentville; Glenn William Heller, McKnightstown; Louis David Brady, Puerto Rico; Frank William Dearing, Gettysburg.

Fred Harold Kahler, Jr., has been transferred to Bloomsburg, Pa., for induction and Harold Grant Webb to Gary, Indiana.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD

The Purple Heart medal has been awarded posthumously to Sgt. Hobart E. Sterner who was killed in action in Germany on March 2. The medal and a letter of condolence has been received by the slain soldier's widow, Mrs. Frances Sterner, Gettysburg R. 1.

LOCAL MAN JAILED

Guy Bolen, of Gettysburg, has been committed to the county jail on a writ issued by the county court for non-support and desertion charges brought by his wife, Mrs. Guy Bolen. Bail was not fixed.

Guam, June 4 (AP)—In the greatest one-day advance in the Okinawa campaign, American infantrymen splashed two miles through drenching rains yesterday to the southeastern shore of the island, sealing off Chinen peninsula which forms the southern arm of the finest fleet anchorage in the southern approaches to Japan.

Tokyo broadcasts quoted "unconfirmed reports" that U. S. amphibious assault units landed near the eastern tip of the peninsula to catch isolated Nipponese troops in a two-way trap while a fleet of more than 40 vessels moved into the anchorage—Nakagusuku bay.

Three other fleets, including two task forces which reappeared after an absence of ten days, were reported by Tokyo to be in Okinawan waters.

Japanese propagandists told of suicide plane attacks on a heavily escorted convoy of "about 40 transports" moving past Oroku peninsula on the west coast, where other Yanks were arrayed today for a smashing drive on Naha airfield, the best in the Ryukyu islands. In a two-hour "ramming assault," Tokyo said one unidentified craft was set afire.

Japs Disorganized

Chinese Gain On 2 Fronts

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, June 4 (AP) — The Chinese drove last night within 28 miles of strategic Luichow, former U. S. air base and Kwangsi province rail junction, the high command announced tonight.

In Hunan province, the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek closed within five miles west of Shaoyang (Paoching), another former base of the U. S. 14th Air Force. A second column closed Sunday within six miles northwest of the town.

The Chinese "are continuing their offensive," the communique added. The important road center of Tsinkong (Chienkiang), 430 miles southeast of Chungking, fell to the Chinese.

Japs Withdrawing

The speed of the Chinese advance toward Luichow underlined reports that the Japanese were withdrawing steadily. It was predicted confidently in Chungking that Luichow, which Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's fliers abandoned last Nov. 7, soon would revert to Chinese control.

The high command said the Chinese had regained lines held in Hunan province on April 9, when the Japanese started their abortive drive westward toward the American airbase at Chihkiang, 250 miles south-east of Chungking.

Striking at two major points along the lengthy north-south China front, Chinese troops threatened the big bomber strip at Luichow, 53 miles northeast of Tsinkong, and the fighter base at Shaoyang (Paoching) to the northeast, 330 miles southeast of the Chinese capital.

The Japanese made their first strong attack in five days on American shipping off Okinawa. Okinawa-based fighters downed 26 attackers. Nimitz made no mention of possible damage to American shipping.

County Soldier Is Wounded On Okinawa

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Miller, 132 Lombard street, Littlestown, were notified by the War Department on Thursday evening that their son, Pfc. Leroy C. Miller, 22, was wounded in action on Okinawa on April 30. The nature of his wounds was not disclosed.

Pfc. Miller was employed by the Cannon Shoe company, McSherrystown, before being inducted into the service on January 9, 1943. Member of an infantry unit, he has been in the South Pacific for about two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have two other sons in the service. They are Pvt. Melvin D. Miller, who is in Germany, and Clyde E. Miller, apprentice seaman, in training at Sampson, N. Y.

MADE 2ND LIEUTENANT

Sgt. John B. Stevens, 21, son of Mrs. John F. Stevens, 524 Carlisle street extended, has been promoted to 2nd lieutenant, his mother has been advised. Lt. Stevens is serving with the 28th Division in Germany. He has been in service since February, 1942, and has been overseas almost two years. He attended Gettysburg high school before entering service.

ALL STARS WIN 6-2

The Gettysburg All-Stars defeated the Bonneville baseball team in a game played here Sunday afternoon 6-2.

The two-mile push through oozing red mud to the southern shores of Okinawa was made on the 64th day of the campaign by Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry Division. Other elements of the division drove into Chinen peninsula itself where Japanese soldiers complicated the American assault by milling around among thousands of civilians.

Associated Press War Correspondent Al Dopking reported that some front line officers predicted the next 48 hours would tell whether disorganized Japanese remnants could be reformed into effective fighting forces.

On the north shore of Chinen peninsula Nipponese with mortars and machineguns put up such a fight U. S. infantrymen called on a rocket boat to break up the enemy concentration.

Japs Kill Selves

Surprisingly rapid advances were reported through the quagmires in the central area by both the air-supplied First Marine and 96th Infantry Divisions. Some Japanese were knocked out in a bayonet charge but others killed themselves with grenades.

Meanwhile, Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., carrier pilots attacked Japanese kamikaze (suicide) plane bases on Kyushu Saturday and yesterday. Halsey returned to his Third U. S. Pacific Fleet flagship only a week ago. With him went Vice Adm. John S. McCain, who resumed active command of the Third Fleet's fast carrier task force. The carrier pilots destroyed a total of 22 Japanese planes and damaged 23.

The Japanese made their first strong attack in five days on American shipping off Okinawa. Okinawa-based fighters downed 26 attackers. Nimitz made no mention of possible damage to American shipping.

YOUTH BREAKS HIS RIGHT ARM

Seymour Bobo, five-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour J. Bobo, Gettysburg R. 4, was treated at the Warner hospital Sunday afternoon for fractures to both bones of his right forearm. He was injured in a fall at his home.

Grace Irene Smith, Orrtanna R. 2; R. Edwin Stoner, Orrtanna R. 2; Glenn Lee Gindlesparger and Ray Flohd Gindlesparger, of the Hoffman orphanage, submitted to operations at the hospital this morning for the removal of their tonsils.

Lt. Col. Percy Custer Fleming, Philadelphia, collapsed in the Rea and Derick drug store, center square, this morning and was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Other Admissions

Admissions over the week-end included Mrs. Bernard Boyle, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Robert Myers, Littlestown; Mrs. Theodore Ridinger, Harney; Mary Shorb, Keyman, Md.; William Pensyl, 54 Hanover street; Helen Lawrence, Taneytown; Mrs. George Stoneback, Fairfield; Hazel Carson, Fairfield. Laura Lee Martin, Fairfield, was admitted and later discharged.

Also discharged were Florence Marie Staub, 333 South Washington street; Mrs. Regis Sanders, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Wayman Snyder and infant daughter, of Nanticoke, Md.; Mrs. Clair Thomas and infant son, 231 Hanover street; Mrs. Eugene Guise and infant son, 48 Breckenridge street; William Heagy, South Washington street; Mrs. Robert Miller, Westminster; Mrs. LaVerne McGore and infant daughter, of Littlestown; Nevin Grieb, 516 Baltimore street; John Mickle, Gettysburg R. 2; Mrs. Enoch Dick, 350 York street; Mrs. Alfred Wymer, Gettysburg R. 2; Guy Crist, Jr., Biglerville; James Wehler, Littlestown; Shirley Mae Chronister, Gettysburg R. 2, and Theodore Lowe, Fairfield.

prevention or protection against infantile paralysis. All that can be done is to provide the best possible care. Your doctor, your health officer and your local Chapter of The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis can and will do everything in their power to see to it that your community is ready to meet an epidemic.

4. Observe these simple precau- tions:

(a) Avoid overtiring and extreme fatigue from strenuous exercise.

(b) Avoid sudden chilling such as would come from a plunge into extremely cold water on a very hot day.

(c) Pay careful attention to personal cleanliness, such as thorough hand washing before eating. Hygienic habits should always be observed.

(d) If possible avoid tonsil and adenoid operations during epidemics. Careful study has shown that such operations, when done during an epidemic, tend to increase the danger of contracting infantile paralysis in its most serious form.

(e) Use the purest milk and water you can. Keep flies away from food. While the exact means of spread of the disease is not known, contaminated water and milk are always dangerous and flies have repeatedly been shown to carry the infantile paralysis virus.

(f) Do not swim in polluted water.

(g) Maintain community sanitation at a high level at all times.

(h) Avoid all unnecessary contact with persons with any illness suspicious of infantile paralysis.

5. Don't become hysterical if cases do occur in your neighborhood. While infantile paralysis is communicable or catching during any outbreak, there are many who have such a slight infection that there are few or no symptoms. This large number of unrecognized infections is one of the reasons there is no practical way of preventing the spread of the disease. But it is also reassuring to know that of the many persons who become infected, few develop serious illness and that, with good care, the majority who are stricken will make a satisfactory recovery. Remember that although this is a frightful disease, needless fear and panic only cause more trouble.

6. Attempts to stop the spread of the virus by closing all places where people congregate have been uniformly unsuccessful. The resulting disturbance to community life is a disadvantage. Today there is no way by which the spread of infantile paralysis can be completely stopped.

7. There is no known cure for infantile paralysis. Good medical care will prevent or correct some deformities. But in about every fourth or fifth case there will be permanent paralysis that cannot be overcome. Do not believe those who for one reason or another promise to cure these cases. Be guided by sound medical advice if polio does strike in your family.

Upper Communities

Cpl. Donald Wentz left Sunday to report at Keesler Field, Mississippi, after a delay enroute furlough spent with Mrs. Wentz in Biglerville.

The Pathfinder class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school, Biglerville, will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Howe. All members are urged to be present as this will be the closing meeting of the spring before the summer recess.

James C. Martin, S 1/C, has re- turned to Washington, D. C., after a week-end pass spent with Mrs. Martin at her home in Biglerville.

Plans are being completed for the opening of a Teen-Age Canteen for the young people of the Upper Communities Friday evening at the Biglerville school auditorium. The project is being sponsored by the Trinity club. Mrs. Charles Tilton and Mrs. Donald Tyson, who are representing the club on the board of directors for the Canteen, request that any persons having record playing machines which could be made available to the canteen, call Biglerville.

Miss Virginia Dugan has returned to Harrisburg after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Edward L. Bowers, of Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Wright and three sons, of Biglerville, have returned from a visit with relatives in Virginia.

Miss Beulah Smith, of Wenksville, and Miss Virginia Wright of Quaker Valley, returned today from a visit with the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Owens, of Hartford, Conn.

The Bendersville fire company will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the community hall. All members are requested to be present as important business will be brought up for discussion included in which will be the matter of deciding on the advisability of the company's annual fair this year.

The Willing Workers class of Bethlehem Lutheran Sunday school, Bendersville, will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ryland Garretson with Mrs. Lloyd Bream and Mrs. Lawrence Wright, Jr., as the associate hostesses.

Sgt. Richard Raffensperger, of Bendersville, left Sunday to report at Miami, Florida, where he will be reassigned. He was accompanied by his bride, the former Miss Virginia Bisher, who will remain with him in Florida.

The class in farm machinery re- pair will be resumed Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Musselman shop building of Biglerville high school. Lessons will be continued along the lines of previous tors, nurses, physical therapists, hospitals and patients. These chapters stand ready to use their funds to assist the entire community. Know your Chapter—ask its help if needed — and volunteer to help your Chapter so that it will be able to render the necessary services.

Kamikaze Raids Just A Nuisance

Guam, June 4 (AP)—American carrier planes and Japanese land-based aircraft swapped punches over Okinawa and Nippon's mainland island of Kyushu during the week-end, with the enemy apparently getting the worst of the trade.

Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., who snorts at Japanese kamikaze (suicide) planes as "just a damned nuisance," signaled his return to sea duty as head of the powerful U. S. Third Fleet by sending carrier planes against Kyushu airfields—kamikaze bases—Saturday and Sunday.

Japan, meantime, unleashed its first strong air attack on Okinawa in five days yesterday. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique today made no mention of possible damage inflicted, but said 26 enemy planes were shot down.

Admiral Halsey, absent from the Pacific fighting for four months, conceded at a flagship press conference that the kamikaze tactics were clearly a threat but added: "They've exerted every effort to break up the Okinawa operation and have failed. x x x They're just a damned nuisance."

RED ROSES WIN 2 FROM ROCKS

(By The Associated Press)

The Lancaster Red Roses nosed out the Wilmington Blue Rocks 3-2 and 3-0 in a doubleheader at Lancaster yesterday to take over the lead in the Interstate league.

Barney Schultz, Wilmington, pitched a walk in the ninth inning of the opener to give Lancaster the deciding run. Fred Peeler, pitched three-hit ball in the night cap to blank Wilmington.

Hagerstown and Trenton divided their doubleheader at Trenton. Hagerstown took the opener 6-5. Trenton scored an 8-2 victory in the nightcap behind Hal Kelleher's pitching.

The York-Allentown game was postponed because of rain.

The Lancaster Red Roses also took their Saturday night game, defeating the Blue Rocks 12-8. Tex Kardow is the only pitcher for the Roses to beat Wilmington so far this year.

Trenton lost to Hagerstown 5-4 Saturday night in the third contest of their five-game series. Al Zych, starting Owl pitcher, clouted a double and a triple to help his team build up a 5-0 lead in the first five innings. In the sixth, however, Zych weakened and Trenton chased three runs across the plate. Francis Maloney preserved the lead for Zych through the eighth.

Today's schedule: Trenton at Allentown and Allentown at York.

Two Girls Held In Babe's Abduction

Philadelphia, June 4 (AP)—Irene Jones, 15, and her sister, Janet, 11, were scheduled to appear at a preliminary hearing today at a house of detention on charges of abduction and of theft of a baby carriage in connection with the death of a three-month-old baby.

The body of Thomas V. Ripley, Jr., son of Mrs. Barbara Ripley, 30, was found abandoned in a vacant lot last Thursday. Detective Lt. Ervin Mock said the girls admitted taking the baby from his coach, "playing with him" and then leaving him under weeds.

A post mortem examination revealed the baby died of a broken neck but neither girl could explain the death, Mock said. He quoted them as saying they rocked the baby to sleep. Mock said they told him they intended to return to the vacant lot for the baby.

Modern surgery began when Joseph Lister performed the first antiseptic operation in 1865.

Just Folks

AT WAR'S END
So long are years that run through dread;
So long are nights beset with fear;
So lonely all the paths we tread
When hate is loose and war is here,
'Twould seem when all the pacts are signed
The way to peace we'd surely find!

When laughter's in the home once more,
And nights are gay again with song,
And he returns from sea or shore
Whose room has empty been so long,
'Twould seem, this time, we'd all make sure
The peace we fashion will endure.

Remember the sacrifice
Which shines through every star of gold
For him who paid war's utmost price
Some bit of freedom's soil to hold,
'Twould seem we'd find some cleaner way
To serve the right, let come what may.

Today's Talk

THE RIVER
There is no more fascinating study than that of the rivers of the world. They are the real arteries of life to the nations of the world. Not only do they serve as agencies of transportation and commerce, but they also serve to fertilize millions upon millions of acres of ground that give to mankind both substance and life.

But beyond and away from all this, the river has a wonderful personality. It sings, it weeps, it frolics, it gets wild and often destructive; but in the main it is peaceful, comforting and inspiring. Nearly always the river is winding, continuously presenting new vistas and new beauties. Its banks are friendly banks with overhanging foliage, and rare wild flowers scenting the waters as they go their way.

The part played by rivers in the building of civilization and in the writing of the history of the world has been very great. Many of our best reading books have centered about rivers. Mark Twain's book "Life on the Mississippi" is well known, and a fine book, at that. One of the most interesting pieces of writing about a river is H. M. Tomlinson's description of the Great Amazon, in Brazil, found in his finest book, "The Sea and the Jungle." And there is a wonderful series of books just on the rivers of the United States, that is being completed.

I shall never forget the languid, tropical and mysterious St. John's River, in Florida, nor that deep-set, ever-dashing Colorado River, eating away the life about it in the gorge of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. And what useful, noble rivers are those of the Mississippi, the Columbia, the Hudson, and the St. Lawrence. Endless, too, are the stories of love and romance centering about such rivers as the Nile, the Danube, the Volga and the Jordan.

Stephen Foster has immortalized the Swanee River in his beautiful song "Old Folks at Home"—a river in Florida, by the way, that I understand Foster never saw! Even as Longfellow immortalized the Evangeline land, in Nova Scotia, but which he also never saw.

David, the Psalmist, undoubtedly had in mind the river when, in the Twenty-third Psalm, he wrote: "He leadeth me beside the still waters." And in the Forty-sixth Psalm he again wrote: "There is a river the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High."

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
James Boyd, Esq., has been re-appointed by the Surveyor General, Deputy Surveyor of Adams county.

New Post Master.—Dr. Charles N. Berchly has been appointed Post-master in Gettysburg, in the room of H. Van Orsdel, Esq., removed. We take this occasion to remark in justice to the retiring officer, that in his intercourse with those having business at the Office, he has been polite and accommodating.

From the upright character and gentlemanly deportment of the new incumbent we have every confidence that his appointment will be highly satisfactory to the business-doing community.

We had pretty severe frosts in this neighborhood on Thursday and Friday nights, which have destroyed a large portion of the tender garden vegetables, in low situations, and no doubt injured somewhat the growing crops of grain.

Whig County Convention.—The convention of Whig delegates from the different townships and boroughs of Adams county will assemble in the Court-house in Gettysburg, at 11 o'clock on Monday, June 9th, 1845, for the purpose of settling a COUNTY TICKET to be supported at the coming election.

The delegates who will appear from the Borough of Gettysburg are John B. McPherson and Daniel M. Smyser.

The County Committee consists of R. Smith, A. R. Stevenson, D. M. Smyser, Joseph Baugher, James Renshaw, A. Heintzelman and Robert G. Harper.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
For Rent.—Several desirable rooms in south-east corner of the diamond, the late residence of Hon. R. G. Harper, deceased. For terms, etc., inquire of Mrs. Harper.

Married. Slaybaugh—Latshaw. —On the 30th ult., by Rev. W. R. H. Deatrich, Henry R. Slaybaugh to Harriet Matilda Latshaw, both of this county.

Wills—Rockwell.—On the 2d ult., by Z. Myers, Esq., Calvin Wills to Julianna Rockwell, both of Hamilton township.

Ziegler—Schmeck.—On the 31st ult., in Espy, Columbia county, Pa., by the Rev. J. M. Rice, Mr. William C. Ziegler, of this place, to Miss Eunice Schmeck of the former place.

Decoration Day.—Monday last—the day set apart for floral tributes to the memory of the soldiers who fell during the war for the suppression of the Rebellion—was observed generally throughout the country as a holiday. In Gettysburg the ceremonies were under the direction of a committee of the "Gettysburg Zouaves."

As the afternoon drew on citizens from the surrounding country poured in, ladies bringing with them floral offerings to be deposited on the graves of our fallen heroes, and by 5 o'clock the streets were well thronged with people anxious to share in the tribute to the heroic dead. The stores and places of business were generally closed at 5 o'clock. At 5½, the Zouaves, escorting about 100 boys and girls from the National Orphans Homestead, and headed by the Gettysburg Brass band, took up the line of march to the National cemetery—the floral offerings being carried in a wagon draped with the national flag. The Zouaves carried the old and tattered flag of the 87th Pa. Regiment, many of the members having followed it during three long years of war.

At the cemetery after music by the band, Prof. Edsal Ferrier offered prayer. After further music by the band, Rev. Dr. Hay delivered an address.

Music by the band followed, during which the flowers were given to the Orphans and by them scattered on the soldiers' graves, the Zouaves having stationed sentinels along the outer burial line to keep the ground clear. This ceremony being gone through with, Lieut. D. L. McKenzie made the closing address.

The national hymn, "My Country 'tis of Thee," was then sung, and the exercises closed with a benediction by Prof. C. J. Ehrhart.

Closed.—The Common schools in this place closed on Tuesday evening. The next term will open the 1st of September.

U. S. Taxes.—C. W. Ashcom, Esq., Collector of this district, will be at the Eagle hotel, Gettysburg, on the 21st and 22nd of June to receive the Income and Special Taxes assessed for 1870.

Election.—The annual election of officers of Ever-Green Cemetery, on Tuesday evening, resulted in the unanimous re-election of the old Board, viz.:
President—J. L. Schick.
Treasurer—Alexander Cobean.
Managers—John Rupp, J. L. Hill, Josiah Benner, George Spangler, George Little, William B. Meals, Alexander Cobean.

The House on Tuesday adopted the Senate bill to increase the pay of census takers, not to exceed $8 per day.

LONG AND BITTER FIGHT AHEAD TO PACIFIC VICTORY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The long, bitter fight on comparatively tiny Okinawa serves to give pause to anyone who might look on the Japanese war as a job to be completed with our left hand.

Multiply Okinawa by the size and importance of Japan proper and you get some very dark days ahead, no matter how victorious. The job, as President Truman has said, is going to take more than did Germany.

And, contrary to a view which appears to be widespread, the price is not to be paid on the ground alone. In fact, the Navy already has paid more for Okinawa than either the Army or Marines.

References to "the former Japanese fleet," and to the efforts of our Navy to get its remnants out for a fight, could build us up for a big let-down. Even our Navy men, driving enthusiastically forward with a fleet which overshadows everything before it in history, know the troubling potentialities which the Japanese admirals still command.

Lack Destroyers
Not counting important units which may be repaired and return to the fight, it appears from a summary of various reports that the Japanese still have seven to ten battleships, a dozen carriers, and perhaps a score of cruisers. They do not have, apparently, anything like a normal complement of destroyers for such a force.

This force, according to best reports, seems to be concentrated at home. Against the total U. S. Pacific fleet it means little, but under certain circumstances it could prove extremely dangerous.

Last fall, when MacArthur invaded the Philippines, the Japanese were operating three principal naval groups—one in the Singapore-Philippine neighborhood, one in the Formosa-Hong Kong area, and one at home.

Each group boasted several battleships and carriers and many support vessels.

Still A Jap Fleet
In the battle of the Philippines the Japanese executed a good plan, staged a historic coup in negotiating the San Bernardino strait at night, and were turned back from MacArthur's convoy in Leyte gulf only by exertion of our last ounce of immediately available strength and at heavy cost.

This, coupled with remembrance of what far fewer German units did in the way of harassing the British fleet throughout the European war, emphasizes sufficiently the significance of Japan's "fleet in being."

Presumably, once we have stocked Okinawa and thrown in our new and more powerful carrier planes, air power will gradually whittle down the remaining enemy naval strength. That it will be completely eliminated is hardly to be expected. A kamikaze attack by even half of Japan's present potential or any given section of an invasion convoy could make us look back regretfully on our present references to their "former" fleet.

MR. CHURCHILL WILL EXPLAIN SYRIAN ISSUE

(By The Associated Press)

London, June 4 (AP)—The Daily Mail said today that Prime Minister Churchill would make a statement in the House of Commons this week "defining in clearest terms" the attitude of the British government on the situation in Syria.

Damascus dispatches indicated that affairs in the Levant still were in a critical state, and British troops were kept constantly on the alert protecting the French in their barracks.

Gen. Charles DeGaulle's proposal for an international conference to settle all Arab problems appeared to have done little to ease British-French tension. The London press charged protest over the DeGaulle charge that British agents fomented agitation against France's Levantine interests.

The British Foreign Office has declined thus far to comment on DeGaulle's proposal. The press, however, sharply criticized the suggestion.

Evacuating Troops
French troops and families under British protection in Syrian towns were being evacuated a Damascus dispatch said last night.

In Kuneitra, south of Damascus, 4,000 Bedouins of the Fadel tribe wanted to attack French barracks, and at Hama other Bedouins kept the British alert. At Deraa and Souleida the French were taken out under armored guard, and Damascus itself was under an 8 p. m. curfew rule. French barracks in the heart of the Syrian capital were about to be evacuated.

Acting Premier Jamil Mardam Bey, of Syria, asserted last night that the French had intended to trap Syrian deputies and cabinet members in the Parliament house when the attack on Damascus opened last Tuesday.

The Syrians, he said, have broken relations completely with the French and will not resume them except on a normal diplomatic plane, without any advantages to the French. He added that an international committee would be formed to "assess the damage and ask the French for indemnity."

DICKINSON GIVES DIPLOMAS TO 25

Carlisle, Pa., June 4 (AP)—Eight honorary degrees were conferred and 25 seniors received diplomas at the annual Dickinson college commencement exercises here yesterday.

The degrees were awarded to the following: Judge Charles Alvin Jones, of the Pennsylvania supreme court, and Dr. William Harvey Perkins, dean of Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, both received degrees of doctor of laws; Andrew H. Phelps, and Robert Emmet Macarney, both received degrees of doctor of literature.

Four clergymen, all alumni of the college, were given degrees of doctors of divinity. They were Rev. Edwin C. Keboch, Harrisburg; Rev. Gilbert Darlington, New York; Rev. Arthur A. Bouten, Baldwin, N. Y.; and Rev. Howard L. Rubendall, Mount Hermon, Mass.

Boyd Lee Spahr, president of the board of trustees, who presided in the absence of President C. William Prettyman, announced 'the names of three new members of the board as follows: Geo. E. Lloyd, Carlisle; William L. Eschelman and Sidney D. Kline, both of Reading.

Japs To Blast U.S. From Stratosphere

San Francisco, June 4 (AP)—Japanese propagandists predicted today the United States would be attacked in "the near future, by bomb carrying stratosphere balloons manned by death defying Japanese pilots."

The broadcast, by Japanese Domei news agency and recorded by the federal communications commission, said Lt. Col. Shozo Nakajima, propaganda spokesman of the Nipponese armed services, made the prediction.

"The spokesman pointed out," Domei added, "that thus far the pilotless balloon attacks have been on an experimental scale and he predicted that when actual results of the experiment have been obtained, large scale attacks with death defying airmen manning the balloons will be launched."

New York City awarded its first contract for subway construction in 1900.

NEW VEHICLE SAFETY LAW

Harrisburg, June 2 (AP)—Pennsylvania motorists not protected by liability insurance after July 1, 1947 will have to deposit security with the state for damages resulting from accidents or face loss of driving privileges.

A new motor vehicle safety responsibility act modeled after that in effect in New York was signed into law by Governor Martin yesterday but the commonwealth has more than two years to put it into effect.

"It will have the tendency of making people carry liability insurance," declared T. Elmer Transeau, director of the state Bureau of Highway Safety, "rather than run the risk of putting up security with the secretary of Revenue for any claims for damage to property or injury to persons."

The new law provides that motorists file reports of accidents with the state and that the Revenue secretary suspend their drivers' licenses unless within 60 days they deposit enough security to satisfy any possible judgment for damages or show a liability insurance policy was in effect.

Only operators or owners exempt from the law are those persons involved in accidents in which there is no injury to a person or damage to property of any other than the motorist, the vehicle was legally parked at the time of the mishap or the vehicle was being operated without the owner's permission.

The big breeze at Atlantic's Point Breeze plant in Philadelphia is a man-made one. Atlantic sends it rushing through pipes of the fluid catalytic unit as part of the process of making aviation combat gas.

The harnessed air has to move fast. Its job is helping to carry the fluid catalyst... literally pushing it around the pipes.

The big winds roaring through are generated by the giant blower shown. The man in the picture is operating the air flow valves which regulate the circulation of working air.

At Port Arthur, Texas, this Point Breeze scene is duplicated. There another huge "cat" plant—twin of the Philadelphia unit—is pouring out an equal flood of 100-octane gasoline.

All this super-fuel goes to power America's tremendous air armadas. But after Victory, Atlantic research will speedily convert Atlantic's "cat" plants to the processing of powerful, economical gasoline for your car.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By GEORGE TUCKER
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

Paris, (AP)—Some of the men who were politically important in France before the war have returned from German prisons and hired press agents.

Their idea seems to be that public relations counsel can help rebuild their prestige and assist in the marketing of the books and magazine articles most of them seem to be writing.

At least three former premiers of France sat out part of the war in enemy "concentration" camps. Of these Paul Reynaud seems to have a head start in the literary field.

A Very Tired Man

He is writing two books, to be published within three weeks of each other. He says the first will show how and why France lost the war; the second deals chiefly with Reynaud's experiences in prison.

Edouard Daladier, a very tired man, has announced no commercial writing plans since his return.

Leon Blum's literary future, for the time being at least, is in the hands of Paul Weill, who described himself as a pleading lawyer who spent four years in the United States as vice president of "France forever."

Like so many others in liberated France Blum has no personal fortune, and since he is one of the leaders who literally can write rings around most of his contemporaries it is not surprising that Weill is negotiating with certain American magazines and book publishers.

"No Malice"

"When Blum came back I thought I should direct him in writing for papers and magazines that have always been friendly to him," Weill said, "though this sort of thing isn't my job at all. I'm a pleading lawyer—as the British say, a barrister."

Just what slants Blum's writing will take or what he thinks the political future of France should be, Weill refuses to say.

"I can tell you this, however," Weill said, "There is no malice, no bitterness in his heart though as long ago as '41 he was on record urging his party to follow De Gaulle as the symbol of unity and the sole hope for France."

"Certainly you remember the Riom trials and how he said, 'You are not prosecuting me or any single individual. You are prosecuting democracy.'"

Paris, (AP)—Secret charts of German minefields captured in a night sea battle barely six hours before H-Hour, D-Day, August 15, 1944, enabled the Allies to invade the south of France without the loss of a single warship.

I was there and saw it, and for days I sat on the story in an agony of suspense, tortured by the fear that some other correspondent would pick it up and bull it through censorship ahead of me. But the navy's iron embargo held. Never until now has the Allied high command admitted possession of the charts or sanctioned publication of the details of how they were captured.

On the night of August 14, four great task forces of the Allied fleet totaling many hundreds of battleships, troop transports and lesser warships moved slowly toward a rendezvous in the assault areas off the coast.

Surprise Essential

To insure surprise, orders had been issued to all warship commanders not to open fire unless in imminent danger. Admiral Davidson, who commanded our task force had dealt bluntly with this question at a final briefing aboard the USS Augusta, his flagship.

"If the surprise fails, this attack is going to be very bloody," Davidson

Degree For Crowley From Duquesne U.

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—The 130 members of Duquesne University's graduating class heard Federal Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley ask for cooperation between government and private industry in developing postwar international trade.

Contacts made in this war, he said here yesterday, must and will continue, adding:

"We may no longer limit our horizon to the continental United States. We are really an integral part of a comparatively small world. x x x as a result, more, if not nearly all, peoples will look to the United States as a market. On the other hand, they are markets for us."

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, Chancellor, conferred honorary degrees on Crowley and CIO President Philip Murray. Rep. Samuel Weiss (D-Pa.), of Glassport, was presented with the "meritorious service award."

He said, "I want every commander to remember—don't open fire. Weigh each case."

That was two o'clock in the afternoon of the 14th. At 2 o'clock the next morning, six hours before H-Hour, I was sitting on the captain's bridge of the Augusta talking to Capt. Edward H. Jones. A warm breeze swept gently over the Mediterranean. A million stars aided by a thin quarter moon gave a lacy shawl effect to the night. As far as the eye could reach ships were dark blurs on the summer sea.

Suddenly gunfire broke out off the port beam. The admiral's chief of staff, Capt. Ransom Kirby Davis, plunged down the ladder from the flag bridge crying "two of our destroyers are out there blowing hell out of each other."

Actually, two German corvettes on patrol out from Toulon had picked up our force and were trying to thread their way through the darkness to safety. They were intercepted by the destroyer Endicott. The skipper of that destroyer, I was told, was Lt. Comdr. John H. Bulkeley of Pacific PT boat fame.

The Endicott's guns cut loose and scored a bullseye. One corvette burst into flame and sank instantly. A few minutes later, the guns cut loose again and shortly thereafter we received a laconic message "target dead in water. Crew abandoning ship."

Bulkeley at once sent a boarding party brought off all the ship's papers. Why the Germans didn't destroy them is a mystery. They had plenty of time, at least 15 minutes before abandoning ship.

But they didn't and that's how the secret charts of all the minefields along the southern coast of France fell into our hands. By dawn our minesweepers were probing the hidden passageways through the minefields by running through them. We had one minesweeper damaged, that's all, but not a single troop transport or ship.

The daily weather map of the United States was first published by the federal government in 1871.

PHILADELPHIA WILL WELCOME ANK GENERALS

Philadelphia, June 4 (AP)—Philadelphia prepared today to give a rousing welcome to Generals Marshall, Bradley and Carl A. Spaatz. The two generals with 50 other officers and enlisted men are scheduled to lead a triumphant victory parade through downtown Philadelphia and conduct a rally at historic Independence Hall.

With them will be Major General Anthony C. McAuliffe, commander of the heroic garrison at Bastogne. General McAuliffe's reply to a German demand that he surrender during the battle of the Belgium bulge last winter was: "Nuts!"

Salvos will be fired from a battery of Naval guns when the heroes enter Independence Hall.

Governor To Be There
An automobile entourage, headed by Governor Martin and Mayor Samuel will meet the group at the northeast airport here at 2 p. m.

General Spaatz, the leader of the American Strategic Air Forces in Europe, is a native of Boyertown, Pa.

Gen. Bradley, deputy of General Dwight Eisenhower, commanded the 2nd Army group, comprising the 1st, 3rd, 4th and 9th armies.

Mrs. Ruth Spaatz of Washington, D. C., wife of the General, met him when his plane landed yesterday at the Guardia airport in New York.

General Bradley's plane arrived shortly afterwards and his wife, Mrs. Mary Bradley of Washington, entered the plane as soon as it came to a halt.

Credit to Allies
With General Bradley were Major General Leland S. Hobbs, commander of the 30th division and other war heroes.

General Bradley is due at West Point, N. Y., tomorrow for graduation exercises and General Spaatz is scheduled to make an appearance later this week at Detroit.

At a press conference shortly after their arrival in New York General Bradley said: "I can tell you that Germany has been destroyed utterly and completely."

General Spaatz said: "The magnificent efforts of our Allies and the tremendous force of manpower and industry were the decisive blow."

Martin To Act On 42 Bills By June 6

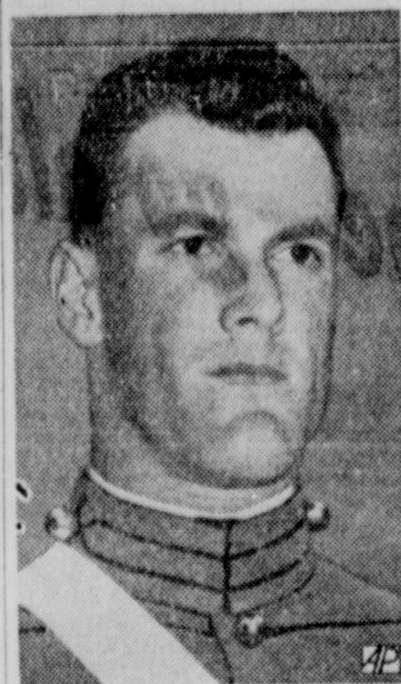

Harrisburg, June 4 (AP)—Governor Martin had only 42 bills from the 1945 general assembly remaining on his desk for final disposition and expected to approve or veto most of them today.

Under the law the chief executive has until Wednesday to affix his signature to the bills, most of them dealing with appropriations for the 1945-47 biennium.

Approval by Martin of these general appropriation bills will result in Pennsylvania starting the next biennium with the highest budget in history, $707,742,118.

After subtracting $185,327,327 ear-

Pole Limas Use Garden Air Rights

Lima beans, a luxury vegetable in the markets, are easily grown in Victory gardens. Where space is limited, but there is a fence or trellis, pole limas will put the garden's air right to use, and at the same time drape the fence or trellis with rich green leaves forming a beautiful background for the vegetable rows.

Bean poles may also be used for the limas to climb, and they should be at least six feet above the ground, in order to give the vines full scope. As the vines grow, new pods are formed and the plants continue bearing until frost kills them.

Lima beans are the richest of all vegetables in Vitamin B. They are delicious when green, and can easily be canned. If you have a surplus toward the end of the season they can be allowed to mature and be stored dry for use throughout the winter.

All limas are tender and seed should not be sown until the ground is thoroughly warmed and danger of frost is over. They may decay if planted earlier.

Chicago, (AP)—Graduation exercises for the kindergarten class of St. Gertrude's parochial school yesterday resembled a college commencement in miniature as "diplomats" were awarded more than 60 tots dressed in academic caps and gowns.

To achieve an added collegiate air the ceremony included a cheer leader, Norine Mulvaney, 5, who said: "We wouldn't be in fashion if we didn't have some cheering."

marked for postwar construction and debt retirements, there was still $512,515,791 allocated for normal operations of all departments and agencies as compared with $507,773,883 for the 1943-45 fiscal period.

Dwarf Flowers Make Good Garden Borders

Victory garden borders, in front of the vegetable rows, and along the garden paths, can be planted attractively with dwarf plants which "stay-put" and can be relied upon not to interfere with work among the vegetables.

Sweet alyssum is deservedly popular, for its snowy carpet of fragrant blossoms. The dark purple alyssum Violet queen is equally attractive, and white and violet plants can be alternated, with good effect.

Dwarf ageratum and lobelia make bushy plants covered with blue-lavender flowers which combine with all other colors and enhance their beauty. The English daisies (bellis perennis) are double flowers of white, red and pink borne on bushy 8-inch plants.

Other Suitable Varieties
The dainty blue, rose and white blooms of the Swan River daisy are material for a beautiful border. The dwarf candytufts are rivals of the alyssum for snowy whiteness as well as giving beautiful shades of lilac and carmine.

A tiny marigold, Tagetes signata pumila, bearing myriads of brilliant orange flowers above fernlike sweet-scented foliage, is a handsome border plant making a solid miniature flowering hedge.

Other good dwarfs are: Antirrhinum (Snapdragon) "Magic Carpet"—Eight inches tall. All snapdragon colors mixed.

California Poppy (Eschscholtzia)—Dwarf erect varieties; soft apricot; double rose; deep scarlet; frilled mixed.

Calliopsis (Tickseed)—Dwarf mixed in shades of maroon, garnet, yellow.

Cosmos Sensation—Grows six feet tall, and bears flowers of dark red, white and pink measuring three

HOME CANNING AIDS ON POINTS

Housewives who relaxed home-canning efforts last summer when points were removed from commercially canned foods only to see them clamped on again last winter, are determined not to be caught short again. They are preparing to stock pantry shelves against food shortages. The food situation is critical now, and no amount of gazing into the crystal ball will reveal what to develop before another home-canning season rolls around.

Victory gardens and food conservation the country over are essential if supplies are to be sufficient to feed this country, its men and women overseas, and its Allies until Victory is won and food production is restored in all nations.

Lightning type jars, with glass lid, rubber ring, and wire ball, and porcelain-lined zinc caps and rubber rings for use with Mason jars, will again be available this year. Women have canned with these closures for generations and the directions for their use are easily followed. However, the need for zinc in critical war industries has reduced the quantity of zinc caps manufactured, and the use of different type closures has necessarily increased.

Glass top seal caps and vacuum seal two-piece metal caps are the other type of closures. The methods of using them differ, and instructions packed in each carton of canning supplies must be followed to avoid improper sealing and spoilage. The housewife who does so avoids waste of materials and food and insures her family of a year-round supply of nourishing, delicious home-canned food.

Most vegetables will droop in the hot sun, even soon after a rain; and if they are upright and crisp the next morning they may not need water. But when they are wilted in the morning, soak the soil.

WINDOW BOXES BRING GARDEN BEAUTY TO HOME

Many Victory gardeners live in hotels and apartments, and having learned the joy of growing plants in community gardens, are wondering how they can use their new skill nearer home.

For some the answer is a window box. Vegetables can hardly be grown in one, in any significant quantity, but a floral window box will bring close to home a bit of garden atmosphere, and will help make the city neighborhood brighter.

When you install an outdoor window box it immediately becomes a part of the house, and should conform to its architectural design and color scheme.

For this reason it is well to construct your own window box, and it is not difficult to do so.

Need Rich Soil

The box itself should be of the same color as the building, or as its trim and the flowers should be of a contrasting color which is harmonious. For a red-brick house, white flowers and plenty of green foliage would be attractive. For a house in which yellow is the prevailing tone blue flowers should be used. These are only suggestions, since the taste of the owner will control, of course.

The flowers must grow well, if the box is to give pleasure; and rich soil is most important, because there is so little of it. The soil should be what florists call good potting soil—a sandy loam well enriched.

To assure an adequate supply of food in the soil, a complete plant food should be mixed with the soil before it is placed in the pot at the rate of one heaping tablespoonful per gallon of soil.

The following table will be helpful:

4-inch pot requires 1-3 teaspoon.
6-inch pot requires 1 teaspoon.
8-inch pot requires 1½ teaspoons.
10-inch pot requires 2 teaspoons.
Porch boxes require plant food as follows:

12x24 inches require 2½ tsp.
12x36 inches require 4 tsp.
15x48 inches require 6 tsp.
24x60 inches require 13 tsp.

Application should be made approximately every six weeks during the growing season.

This quantity refers to the highly soluble commercial plant foods of balanced content and does not apply to much slower acting organic materials.

The best window-box flowers are those which bear flowers freely and continuously. In these respects the petunia has no superior. All types are long bloomers, the large-flowered single and double, the small-flowered singles, the dwarfs and the balcony types. The fragrant double nasturtiums are fine window box material, and some of them are of the trailing habit.

It is possible to have a window box filled with morning glories, and it is hard to imagine a more beautiful decoration than their tapestry of green leaves and glorious blue flowers. They like a south exposure.

Feed Vegetables As Harvest Nears

Modern commercial plant food is quickly available to plants, and it may be used up rapidly by fast growing vegetables. As they approach maturity, an additional application will insure continued rapid growth, which means maximum size, tenderness and flavor.

When growth slows down, many vegetables grow tough and lose flavor; some even develop a bitter taste. The time to make this additional application will vary with different crops, but in general it is when they begin to approach maturity.

When tomatoes, egg plant and peppers set fruit, an added application of fertilizer will often produce an increase in yield, and insure a high average of quality in the fruit.

When root crops begin to form edible roots, when beans begin to blossom, when lettuce thinnings are large enough to use, you can make sure the plants will finish their course in top form, by giving additional fertilizer.

This should be about half the strength of the original application. Instead of using four pounds to 100 square feet, or 1 pint on each side of a fifty-foot row, use half as much in each case. The best way to apply it is as a side dressing, two or three inches away on each side of each row.

One expert says Victory garden crops which are eaten raw should not be harvested more than ten minutes before using; others not more than half an hour. Try to come as near to this as possible.

Starts white—stays white

Why is Du Pont House Paint so brilliantly white? Because it's made with titanium dioxide, the pigment that's even whiter than snow! This paint stays white, too, because—

It's self-cleaning

Du Pont House Paint is so formulated that, as time goes by, a microscopically fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this powder away, taking dust and dirt with it, and leaving the surface clean and white again. (Excessive accumulations of dirt, particularly in sooty industrial communities, or in heavily shaded locations, may delay or interfere with this process.) Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Guards the surface

Forms a beautiful, durable coating that protects against rust, rot and decay. When you paint your house, use the paint that gives it both lasting beauty and lasting protection.

Yet this Du Pont Self-Cleaning House Paint costs no more than other good paints. Available in white and popular tints. We will be glad to recommend a reliable $3.25 painting contractor. (5 Gal. Containers)

Warfare On Slugs And Snails

Flower growers and vegetable gardeners often find plants gnawed and torn without further evidence of who the culprit is. Plant lice are quite easy to find and recognize; most leaf-eating beetles and caterpillars remain somewhere near the scenes of their depredations. In fact, any of the common above-ground plant enemies, even including stalk and vine borers, leave a trail of condemning evidence. It is the slug or his close relative, the snail, that is difficult to convict, for he inflicts his ravages at night and is conspicuously missed the next morning. Only the damages remain as a remote clue to his identity.

For all practical purposes of control, especially for home gardeners, slugs and snails may be considered jointly, with the slug merely representing a snail without a protective shell covering. Many slugs are small, measuring no more than three-fourths of an inch long when fully grown. Others range from an inch or more to 5 or 6 and even 8 inches in length, depending on the species, of which there are at least 32 in this country. And there are several species of snails. It is claimed that none of the destructive species of slugs and snails is native to the United States, all having been brought from foreign lands.

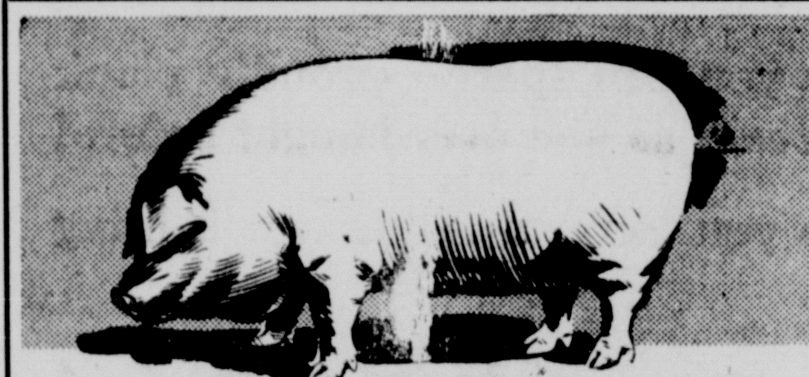

Few ornamental and food plants are immune to attacks by these two strange animals. And even where no attacks are made, slugs and snails prove troublesome when they overrun cellars, infest wells and cisterns, or leave their slimy trails on porches and walks.

One of the first steps in war on these invaders is to remove propagating shelters, such as decaying timbers and similar debris in moist, shady places, weeds and other accumulations of wet vegetation in and near the garden and lawn. Dryness and sunshine, with good circulation of air, are effective agents in preventing slug and snail propagation.

Lime Is Effective
Next, direct careful combat may consist of hunting the thieves down at night when they are active, using a flashlight or lantern. Too, it is advisable to destroy the clusters of jelly-like eggs deposited in damp areas where the creatures congregate.

Many gardeners report successful combat by distributing a poison bait over infested beds after slugs and snails begin to damage plants. This is composed of one pound of calcium arsenate mixed with 16 pounds of dry wheat bran, with sufficient water added to make the mixture medium moist. If there is danger of poisoning poultry or song birds, the bait may be placed under upturned flower pots, with one edge wedged up far enough to permit the pests to reach the bait. Another reader reports the addition of some molasses to the bait greatly increases its attractiveness. The chief problem in poisoning slugs and snails is to induce them to change their diet from tender plant foliage to the bait.

Perhaps the most effective remedy is to strew a 3 or 4-inch heavy band of air-slaked lime across their customary paths or around beds or areas they are attacking. Do this in the evening and renew the bands as often as necessary to keep the lime dry. Death results from the lime causing irritation and the invaders exhausting their bodies by excessive secretion to allay the burning. Birds are useful in the home grounds, as they feed on slugs and snails as well as the deposited eggs.

Rev. Fr. Thomas D. O'Connor, C.M., chaplain at St. Joseph's college, spoke on "The religious aspect of the veteran rehabilitation." He declared that "the universality of the Church is a distinct advantage for Catholic soldiers throughout the world. The opportunity for Catholic action of the Catholic service man who has been a soldier of Christ since his Confirmation is exceptional." He advised families "to be prepared for the mental attitude which result from the suffering which the boys are enduring."

The session closed with the singing of "O Mary Conceived Without Sin" by the assembly with Mrs. Vergie Hall as the accompanist.

Delegates visited the various displays which included library and literature, vacation school displays, youth display, USO and others.

Here Two Speakers
Mrs. Evelyn Chrismer, vice president, presided at the 3:30 o'clock session with Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick F. McGee, McSherrystown, giving the opening prayer. Mrs. Chrismer, who is also deanery chairman of the Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs, announced that $382.89 had been raised by the deanery. Members were asked to pray for the late Pope Pius X who founded the religious vacation school project 25 years ago.

Mrs. Paul D. Sullivan, president of the Harrisburg Council, spoke on the program of the National Council, stressing "that spiritual, cultural and social events should be emphasized at all meetings." She spoke on the unity in the work of the NCCW. She stressed the three "C's" as "the Code of Morality, Charity in Action and Courage," of the Council.

Dr. A. M. Wasilfsky, head of the English department at St. Joseph's college, spoke on "The Pursuit of Peace" which he defined as "a concord of wills." He said "the three great countries in the news today do not have a common law of charity but each has a selfish interest in peace." He spoke of his experiences in Rome and "deplored the breaking of vows in the world by countries and lay people."

He reviewed briefly the Dumbarton Oaks conference, Yalta and the San Francisco conference.

Benediction
Mrs. Chrismer presented "a token of appreciation" to the Dean, Rev. Fr. O'Connell, who thanked the women for their interest and cooperation.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was held at 4:30 o'clock. Father O'Donnell was the celebrant. Father John H. Weaver, Littlestown, deacon and Father Crowley subdeacon. The intention of the Benediction was "A Just and Lasting Peace."

Board members and guests attended a fried chicken dinner at Graeffenburg inn and council members and youth enjoyed a picnic lunch on the church grounds. The clergy were guests of the host pastor.

The Youth session, highlight of the convention, was held at 8 o'clock, with Miss Regina Moore, deanery youth chairman, presiding. Rev. Fr. Carl Brady, Waynesboro, gave the opening prayer. Miss Moore stressed the necessity of "establishing a Youth Council in the Deanery with a physical, cultural, recreation and service program." Fairfield has established such a program, it was announced.

Panel Speakers
Father Brady presided at the youth panel. Speakers included: Miss Rose Marie Wagner, Forensic League contestant of the southern area, from St. Joseph's academy, McSherrystown, spoke on "Christ is Our Co-worker" "Recreation under Catholic Auspices" was discussed by Clarence Lehniger of Waynesboro. Miss Eileen Rodgers, St. Joseph's college, spoke on "Educating the Catholic Youth."

Mrs. Angelo was the speaker of the evening using as her topic "Youth in the Family." She centered her talk around the fourth Commandment, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother." She said there are "three questions only that need be answered: Who are we? Why are we here? and Where are we going?"

The glee club of Delone Catholic high school, McSherrystown, gave a musical program under the direction of Mrs. Preston Smith with Miss Norma Yantis, at the piano.

Benediction was pronounced by Monsignor McGee followed by the singing of The Star Spangled Banner by the assembly closing the meeting.

Miss Catherine E. Miller was general chairman of the convention with Mrs. Grace Kump assisting. They, with the deanery president, arranged the convention program. Other committees included: Miss Mary Busbey, dinner; Miss Betty Rosensteel, transportation; Miss Helen Dillon, registrations.

Other members of the clergy who attended the convention were: Rev. Robert Hartnett, New Oxford; Rev. Joseph Gotwalt, Fairfield, and Rev. Cyril Allwein, McSherrystown.

Chapter 16

Kay awoke to the sound of rain lashing against the windows of the Lambert house. The room was cold. She lay in bed waiting for Liza to come and light a fire.

She sat up, hearing Eloise's high heels tapping down the hall to Lucia's room. "Eloise!" she called.

The door opened and Kay asked. "Where is Liza?"

Eloise stared at her with bold insolence. "I really can't say. It's not my day to keep up with her."

Kay was so surprised that she couldn't speak for a moment. Then she knew. Lucia was responsible for her maid's attitude. Kay felt a hot wave of anger surge through her body as she saw the deliberate impudence in the maid's pale blue eyes. Yet her voice showed no anger when she said:

"Well, find out, won't you? And tell her I want my breakfast."

Eloise tossed her head and made no answer as she closed the door.

Kay stared at the wall, thinking perhaps she had dreamed the incident. Eloise, half white, with her brows arched above her insolent eyes, her perfect clipped English, impertinent to her! And in her own house! She wondered if her stepmother had heard, and thought angrily: Do I have to stand for everything from Lucia?

She slipped out of bed no longer conscious of the cold. She was drawing a robe about her when a knock sounded and Lucia entered.

The older woman was beautiful in a bright satin house coat, her dark hair falling about her shoulders. "My dear," she spoke soothingly to Kay, "let me apologize for Eloise. She doesn't understand taking orders from anyone but me. If you had only asked for her services I would have been glad to lend her."

Kay flushed angrily, but she managed to keep her voice calm. "I don't have to ask you for favors, Lucia. This is my home. I have my own servants."

Lucia laughed throatily. "You mean, Eliza? I told her again yesterday not to come upstairs. She upsets Eloise."

"Listen, Lucia"—Kay's voice was sweetly warning—"did you understand me when I said that this house is mine? It doesn't belong to Francis. It belongs to me, just as Liza's belongs to her. My grandfather's will says so." She paused, then decided to finish what she had started. "And though you have all the trees cut down and change everything here, you still can't change that will!"

Incredulous anger burned in Lucia's eyes. She looked at Kay for a long instant, then her poise returned. "You are tired, dear," she said, "and no wonder, after that perfectly gorgeous party you and Francis gave for me." She turned to the bed, smoothed the covers. "Now come back and lie down. I'll bring your breakfast upstairs. Myself."

Kay shook her head. Lucia's manner of trying to place her in the wrong infuriated her even more. She said icily, "I'll go down for breakfast and I want Liza here from now on."

"But, darling," Lucia protested, "are you walking over my orders?"

"Yes, I am," Kay said levelly. "If you want to put it that way."

She turned and walked swiftly into the bathroom. She saw Eloise in the hall; the girl had seen and heard everything. Under the shower Kay's anger gave way to regret. Katherine would have been so ashamed of her. For in Katherine's home no one was ever known to raise a voice in anger, to sulk or rebel.

Kay went into the kitchen. Anna still reigned supreme there only by virtue of being a better cook than those recommended by Lucia's friends in Atlanta. Anna was scowling out the window at the rain.

Kay's heart sank as she tried to cover up Lucia's unkindness, had been unwilling for Kay to know of it, for fear she'd become angry and play into Lucia's hands. Well, Liza's efforts had been in vain.

She slipped her coffee, and looked up at Anna's frown. "What's wrong with you this morning?" she asked.

Anna's scowl deepened, and her lower lip became a fair imitation of Liza's when she was angry. "I'm gonna cut that yaller gal's heart right out of her sinking body—so help me!"

"Why, Anna?" Kay exclaimed.

"What has she done to you?" Anna sniffed. "She made that no-count Sam take her to a dancing place last night. They never come in till way past midnight. Sam claim she want him to learn her how to rumba!"

Kay's involuntary laughter turned to a grim smile. So the entire household had been out on a binge last night.

"I'm sure she can't dance as well as you, Anna," Kay's voice was placating. "Just let her alone. She can't give you any trouble."

Anna's face relaxed. "No'm, she can't. But I sho' can give her plenty if she don't let Sam alone!"

Kay turned the collar of her raincoat high above her bright hair and ran across the drenched back yard to the garage. Driving slowly down Lambert Avenue, the rain plastered wet leaves on the windshield. The argument she'd had with Lucia had left her spent and feeling sick with shame.

Jerry answered the bell at Dr. Sims' bungalow. "Dr. Sims—he in de bed," he volunteered.

"I'll go back there, Jerry," she answered, giving him her wet coat. "Yassum."

Kay summoned a smile before she entered the doctor's bedroom. Her throat tightened as she remembered that she had never been back here before, probably no one in Lowell had. He was never here. He was always in someone else's room, lending his courage and sympathy.

RADIO PROGRAMS

 New York, June 4 (AP)—The Blu has just one more than ten days to go before the June 15 date it has set to become the American Broadcasting company. Thereafter, the Blu will be entirely forgotten, at last as far as official titles are concerned.
 Leading up to the switchover, the network this week and most of next is stressing more than ever American over the Blu. This tie-in process already has been under way for some time in a campaign to familiarize the listeners.

 The network, in referring to itself by the new name, shortens it to America, not having exclusive use to the initials ABC. However, in printed program listings such as this column ABC will be used in keeping with the plan followed for the other networks.
